

I am concerned that the banking industry will win in their attempt to change the no call list rules which would allow them to contact former customers. I am also concerned that if this varience or change is granted, other businesses will be sure to follow and request exceptions for their businesses as well.

I am in support of leaving the no call list as it is, and the only modifications I would support is 1) the addition of cell phones to this list, and 2) extending the no call list to non-profit organizations as well--make the no-call regulations apply to everyone.

Thank you.
